5. Project Location and Illustration.

The Project is as described herein, and illustrated in Attachment B.

6. Vesting.

6.1. To the maximum extent permitted under the laws of the County, the State of Utah, and the United States, the Parties hereto intend that this Agreement grants to Developer the right to develop and use the Project, as outlined in and subject to the requirements set forth in this Agreement, without modification or interference by the County (collectively, the "Vested Rights"). The Parties intend that the rights granted to Developer under this Agreement are contractual and also include all of those rights that exist under statute, common law, and at equity. The Parties specifically intend that this Agreement grants to Developer "vested rights" as that term is construed in Utah's common law and pursuant to Utah Code.

6.2. Neither the County nor any department or agency of the County shall impose upon the Project (whether by initiative, or other means) any ordinance, resolution, rule, regulation, standard, directive, condition or other measure (each a "New Law") that reduces or impacts the development rights provided by this Agreement or the Vested Rights. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, any New Law shall be deemed to conflict with this Agreement and / or the Vested Rights if it would accomplish any of the following results in a manner inconsistent with or more restrictive than applicable law, either by specific reference to the Project or as part of a general enactment that applies to or affects the Project: (i) change any land uses or permitted uses of the Project; (ii) limit or control the rate, timing, phasing or sequencing of the approval, development or construction of all or any part of the Project in any manner so long as all applicable requirements of this Agreement, and the applicable zoning ordinance are satisfied; or (iii) apply to the Project any New Law otherwise allowed by this Agreement that is not uniformly applied on a County-wide basis to all substantially similar types of development projects and project sites with similar zoning designations. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if Developer considers any New Law to be beneficial to the Project, this section does not require Developer to comply with the superseded ordinance, but rather in such cases, Developer may with County approval, which approval may not be unreasonably withheld, conditioned, or delayed, elect to request that the New Law apply to the Project.

6.3. The Developer acknowledges that the County is restricted in its authority to limit its police power by contract and that the limitations, reservations, and exceptions set forth herein are intended to reserve to the County all of its police power that cannot be so limited. Notwithstanding the retained power of the County to enact such legislation of the police powers, such legislation shall not modify the Developer's vested right as set forth herein unless facts and circumstances are present which meet the exceptions to the vested rights doctrine as set forth in Section 17-27a-509.5 of the County Land Use, Development, and Management Act, as adopted on the Effective Date, Western Land Equities, Inc. v. County of Logan, 617 P.2d 388 (Utah 1980), its progeny, or any other exception to the doctrine of vested rights recognized under State or Federal laws.

5. Project Location and Illustration.

The Project is as described herein, and illustrated in Attachment B.

6. Vesting.

6.1. To the maximum extent permitted under the laws of the County, the State of Utah, and the United States, the Parties hereto intend that this Agreement grants to Developer the right to develop and use the Project, as outlined in and subject to the requirements set forth in this Agreement, without modification or interference by the County (collectively, the "Vested Rights"). The Parties intend that the rights granted to Developer under this Agreement are contractual and also include all of those rights that exist under statute, common law, and at equity. The Parties specifically intend that this Agreement grants to Developer "vested rights" as that term is construed in Utah's common law and pursuant to Utah Code.

6.2. Neither the County nor any department or agency of the County shall impose upon the Project (whether by initiative, or other means) any ordinance, resolution, rule, regulation, standard, directive, condition or other measure (each a "New Law") that reduces or impacts the development rights provided by this Agreement or the Vested Rights. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, any New Law shall be deemed to conflict with this Agreement and / or the Vested Rights if it would accomplish any of the following results in a manner inconsistent with or more restrictive than applicable law, either by specific reference to the Project or as part of a general enactment that applies to or affects the Project: (i) change any land uses or permitted uses of the Project; (ii) limit or control the rate, timing, phasing or sequencing of the approval, development or construction of all or any part of the Project in any manner so long as all applicable requirements of this Agreement, and the applicable zoning ordinance are satisfied; or (iii) apply to the Project any New Law otherwise allowed by this Agreement that is not uniformly applied on a County-wide basis to all substantially similar types of development projects and project sites with similar zoning designations. Notwithstanding the foregoing, if Developer considers any New Law to be beneficial to the Project, this section does not require Developer to comply with the superseded ordinance, but rather in such cases, Developer may with County approval, which approval may not be unreasonably withheld, conditioned, or delayed, elect to request that the New Law apply to the Project.

6.3. The Developer acknowledges that the County is restricted in its authority to limit its police power by contract and that the limitations, reservations, and exceptions set forth herein are intended to reserve to the County all of its police power that cannot be so limited. Notwithstanding the retained power of the County to enact such legislation of the police powers, such legislation shall not modify the Developer's vested right as set forth herein unless facts and circumstances are present which meet the exceptions to the vested rights doctrine as set forth in Section 17-27a-509.5 of the County Land Use, Development, and Management Act, as adopted on the Effective Date, Western Land Equities, Inc. v. County of Logan, 617 P.2d 388 (Utah 1980), its progeny, or any other exception to the doctrine of vested rights recognized under State or Federal laws.

- 6.4. The parties mutually acknowledge that any use lawfully established under vested laws and this Agreement replaces and supersedes any previously approved development agreements pertaining to or recorded against the Property and Project.

7. Development Standards and Use Restrictions.

- 7.1. Lot Development Standards. The use of the Project shall be limited to eighty-one (81) detached single-family residential lots. Each Party agrees to work cooperatively and in good faith toward resolution of any such issues.
- 11.7. Force Majeure Event. County agrees to offer a reasonable period for Developer to cure the effect of the event given the extent of the effect on the Project and the Developer's ability to redress the effect as mutually determined by Developer. If mutual determination cannot be reached, the Developer may employ a third party to make a determination. Water Wise Landscape Guideline

Smart Field Development

Weber County, Utah

September 19, 2023

The developer of phases one and two of the Smart Field Development has created this landscape guideline with the intention of providing the lot owners information for water-wise landscaping. If any of the terms contained herein is ambiguous, then the information set forth on USU Extension's Center for Water-Efficient Landscaping website as it exists as of the date above shall be used for clarification purposes. <https://extension.usu.edu/cwel/principles>

Planning and Design

It is recommended that the residential landscaping is done in a manner that meets the needs of each homeowner, while implementing the latest water conservation practices. The first principle is to begin with a plot plan, drawn on graph paper, that maps out the existing features within the lot in relation to the property lines. Your map should also contain depictions of existing features that you intend to incorporate into your design and existing features that will be removed. When organizing your plantings, careful consideration should be given to the effect of the sun, soil conditions and other natural factors.

The shade trees should be placed on the buildings' south, east and west sides. Evergreens, if any, should be planted on the north side of the buildings.

The location of each plant is best accomplished by placing the largest trees first and then working down to the smallest plants. Consider hiring a professional landscaper who possesses experience in water conservation design for the plant selections and irrigation system.

Soil Preparation

Soils can be improved by tilling organic matter, such as compost, into the soil up to 6 inches deep. This may best be done prior to other landscaping activities. A soil test may help identify additives that will help to improve your specific soil type. Knowing your soil type will also help in choosing plants that will best thrive in that soil.

Plant Selection

Plants are best selected by using the "Salt Lake City Plant List & Hydrozone Schedule." https://extension.usu.edu/cwel/files/2013_SLCPlantList_ver2-1.pdf . The Weber Basin Conservancy Garden Plant List may also be used as well as the USU Extension's Center for Water-Efficient Landscaping website and the Weber Basin Water Conservancy Garden Plant list. <https://www.weberbasin.com/Conservation/PlantInfo>

A well-balanced mix of plantings for your property may be designed with 25% native plants, 25% low water adapted plants, 25% medium water plants, 25% lawn areas, or high-water use plants. These percentages are guidelines only and there may be substantial variations to this mix by homeowners.

Point source drip irrigation can be used to adjust the amount of water delivered to each plant if mixing plants with different water needs.

Practical Turf Areas

Turf grasses should only be used in practical areas, with a maximum of 50 percent of any lot landscaped with turf grass. Turf grass areas can be minimized by increasing the sizes of shrub beds and using hardscapes such as patios, pathways, sports courts appropriate gravel areas, and structures. Turf shall not be used in areas smaller than 4 feet in width.

Mulch

Mulch may be installed at a minimum depth of 3 inches to maximize moisture and weed suppression. Mulch should be replenished on a regular basis to maintain the depth. Mulch may include organic materials such as wood, bark, and compost. It may also include inorganic mulches such as decorative rock, cobble, or crushed gravel. Recycled materials such as rubber mulch may also be used.

Efficient Irrigation

Irrigation systems shall include a smart controller that will automatically adjust irrigation amounts based on weather data such as the Rainbird ESP controller or Orbit B-hyve smart controller. Irrigation controllers that use soil moisture sensing capabilities such as Hunter Soil-Clik may also be used.

Turf areas shall be irrigated by sprinkler heads that provide head-to-head coverage and matched precipitation rates. If a combination of sprinkler heads is used, they must be separated by zone to allow for proper adjustments to irrigation times. Spray, rotor, or rotary heads must be separated by irrigation valves and operated by separate clock stations. Nozzles that provide a lower precipitation rate are required.

Shrub beds shall be watered with drip irrigation using in-line drip emitters such as Netafirm on a grid system or point-source emitters that provide water directly to the base of each plant.

Landscape Maintenance

Landscaped areas shall be regularly maintained to avoid weed infestations, excessive pest damage or overgrowth of plant materials. Irrigation systems shall be checked, adjusted, and repaired on a regular basis to limit overwatering or under-watering.

Use pre-emergent herbicides such as Preen or Barricade in the spring and fall to reduce weed growth in shrub beds.
